THE SEA SERPENT OF 1879.

As He Appeared to Various Ancient and Trustful Mariners—Of Variable Dimensions and Proportions, He Frequently Reveals Himself.

From the New York Sun.

This has been a good year for believers in the sea snake, and a hard one for skeptics. Usually he times his annual gambols in the North Atlantic to the watering season, so that yacht parties and bathers have the benefit of him, but this year he has been appearing at intervals the twelvemonth through, and only the other day was off the Newfoundland Banks, where during the last voyage of the Anchoria to this port, Fourth officer Rowell saw him, four hundred feet long, with a cavernous mouth that ever and anon opened and spat out great volumes of water. The first recorded appearance this year, of the sea serpent, was on the North Carolina coast, where he seemed to be trying, for some unknown purpose to enter one of the sounds or rivers. Presently he was found on the other side of the globe, in April, yet not on the first day of the month, by Capt. Davidson, who, while on the way to Kobe, in his good ship Kinshu Maru, saw him dangle from the under side of a whale, that leaped clear out of the sea to be rid of its tormentor. Shaken off, the snake shot thirty feet of himself into the air, being

THE THICKNESS OF A JUNK'S MAST, and then dove out of sight into the sea. Two months later, Capt. Wells, in his fishing vessel, the Aeronaut, saw him off Cape Ann light, and here again he had thirty feet out of water; but whether it was that he had cast his skin, or whatever the cause, he had become of a light color, and his head nearly square—whereas, when Capt. Dalton saw him last year, as recorded in the Sun soon after, the serpent's head was black, with green spots, maybe eighteen inches broad, and eyes as large as saucers. The season being now at its height, the sea serpent thenceforth almost continually kept himself before the public eye. Capt. Sampson of the Louisiana Montgomery found him ten miles east of Picton Island, a hundred feet long, as big round as a barrel, and loping along at seven knots and hour. Soon after, that is to say Aug. 5, Capt. J. F. Cox, of the Privateer, from London to New York, saw him a hundred miles from Brest, at 5 P. M., under a dazzling sun. He (Capt. Cox) was looking to windward when he perceived something black, about 300 yards away, slowly lifting itself twenty feet above the sea, when it revealed the form of an eel five feet in diameter, of length indefinite. Then with fascinating grace poising

THE VULTURE-LIKE HEAD over the white caps for a moment, it turned and went down in the foam. This performance the serpent repeated three times, at intervals of ten seconds, and each time Capt. Cox was near enough to see "its great melancholy eyes." On Sept. 2, long. 71 degrees 21 minutes, lat. 39 degrees 35 minutes, as the log of the barkentine Palomouth—from Dundalk to New York—records, the snake was seen again. Here he was only twenty feet from the observers; but, as if to perpetuate this mystery of the century, he kept five feet under water as he ambled by the captain, mate and cook. He had the same square shaped head as when Capt. Wells saw him, and was covered with diamond shaped scales; but he was only twenty feet long, and his greatest diameter, which was just back of his head, was but about six inches. Eleven days later, however, this old friend had in part recovered his wonted dimensions, for Capt. Forsyth, in the yacht Ella, saw him off Opean, where, a hundred yards to leeward, sixty feet long; his snakeship raised his head fifteen feet above the water.

ARCHED HIS MAJESTIC NECK, then sank with a mighty commotion, while "all on board were paralyzed with fear, and one of the ladies fainted." On landing, the entire party congratulated themselves on their escape. To cut a long record short, we now have the great snake fully restored to his most prodigious proportions, as he appeared, a mile distant on the port beam, to Fourth officer Rowell—head "big," "tongue extremely long," body round and black, and going faster than the Anchoria, with which the monster was racing, while the water in his wake was beaten to foam. Fourth officer Rowell saw him "through a pair of strong glasses," just as Capt. Davidson had also seen him "by taking glasses;" whether strong or not he does not say. But in truth the serpent of 1879 has been seen by so many sober, upright, and candid mariners, with telescopes and with naked eyes, above water and under water, and in all seas, from Rio Kiu to Cape Ann, that the scoffers are thrust upon the defensive.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, etc., I will send a recipe that will cure you. FLEMING'S CURE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the Rev. J. J. Fleming, Station D, New York City.

PRESERVING DEAD BODIES.

A New Process For Preserving Human Bodies—Decay Entirely Prevented and a Life Like Appearance Preserved.

Mr. Kreisman, United States Consul-General at Berlin, in a dispatch to the department of state, gives a description of a newly discovered process for the preservation of dead bodies. The inventor, or discoverer, had obtained a patent for the process, but the German government, appreciating the high importance of the invention, induced the patentee to abandon his patent. Thereupon the government published a full description of the process, as set forth in the letters patent. It is as follows: The dead bodies of human beings and animals fully retain their form, color, and flexibility, even after a period of years. Such dead bodies may be dissected for the purposes of science and criminal jurisprudence. Decay, and the offensive smell of decay, are completely prevented. Upon incision the muscular flesh shows the same appearance as in the case of a fresh dead body. Preparations made of the several parts, such as natural skeletons, lungs, entrails, etc.,

RETAIN THEIR SOFTNESS AND PLIABILITY.

The liquid used is prepared as follows: In 3000 grammes of boiling water are dissolved 100 grammes of alum, 25 grammes of cooking salt, 12 grammes of saltpetre, 60 grammes of potash, and 10 grammes of arsenic acid. The solution is allowed to cool and is filtered. To 10 litres of this neutral, colorless, odorless liquid 4 litres of glycerine and 1 litre of methyl alcohol are to be added. The process of preserving or embalming dead bodies by means of this liquid consists, as a rule, in saturating and impregnating those bodies with it. From 1½ to 5 litres of the liquid are used for adults, according to its size.

There are now two kinds of drunkenness, contagious and periodical. Either kind may be termed in all respects, a disease. That it is such is proved by the one fact—afflicted parties are frequently compelled to drink against their will or better judgment. Nothing will restrain them; neither the prayers of friends, the tearful entreaties of wives and children, nor the imminent ruin of their private affairs.

The principal predisposing cause of drunkenness is a sanguine temperament, a strong irascible nervous system. Daily observation shows that men excelling in body and mind are more disposed to drunkenness than those of feeble habits. The weakling, affected with headaches after drinking rarely become drunkards.

Cinchona bark was introduced into Europe about the year 1658, but it was not until about 1737 that the plant producing it was known to naturalists. In that year, a French man, on a journey to Lima, Peru, had the opportunity of examining the tree, a description of which (upon his return to Paris) he published in the Memoirs of the French Academy. Soon thereafter, Linnæus, the botanist, gave it the name of "Cinchona Officinalis," in honor of the Countess of Cinchona, wife of the Viceroy of Peru, who had been healed miraculously (as the Jesuits of the day believed) by drinking from a pool of water into which the top of one of these trees, blown down by the wind, had fallen.

Cinchona stands at the head of all tonics. When taken into the stomach a pure tincture of it usually excites in a short time a warmth which diffuses itself over the whole body. After some moments have elapsed the circulation experiences its influence, as exhibited in the somewhat increased frequency of the pulse; and, after a few doses are given at regular intervals, the whole system becomes more or less beneficially affected, and all the functions undergo a moderate degree of excitement. Its action upon the nervous system is often evinced by a sense of tension, or fullness or slight pain in the head, singing in the ears, etc.; overdoing brings partial temporary deafness. But, besides the mere excitation of the ordinary functions of health, it produces other effects upon the system which must be considered peculiar and independent of its tonic or opiate operation.

That Bright's disease, Diabetes, Pain in the back and loins, Smarting, Inflammation, Calculi, Brickdust deposit, or any trouble of the Kidneys or Bladder, is cured by the use of Dr. Merz's Nerve-Tonic, the great Buchu Compound. It is the most wonderful prescription ever compounded for these troubles. Messrs. Adams & Carroll, wholesale druggists, say: "We regard Nerve-Tonic as the best Kidney and Bladder Remedy in the market." Woodward, druggist, Portland, Oregon, says: "Everybody speaks highly of it." Childs, druggist, Portland, Oregon, says: "Sold lots of it; it always does the work." Many have been cured of obstinate kidney complaints after the doctors have given them up. O. O. C. J.

An account of the finding of a living toad in a solid rock in the State Prison quarry recently appeared in the GAZETTE. It was a sober statement of fact, but was received with some incredulity. A late article in Chamber's Journal cites numerous instances of the finding of live toads in trees and stones. It states that in the records of the French Academy of Sciences there is a description of a living toad found in the heart of an old elm tree, and that toads in clay have been often met with than in trees; sometimes a whole family of them have been dug up. The following is a case in point:

"In 1866 a toad was found at a considerable depth at Benthall, near Broseley, Shropshire. Mr. Bathurst, earthenware manufacturer at Benthall, ascertained that the creature was met with about six feet below the surface, in a layer of tough clay, customarily used for making a coarse brown ware. Above this layer, in successive strata, were ferruginous coal of poor quality, clay, a loan of clay and gravel, and meadow turf at the top. The toad was found filling a cavity as wax does a seal. A minute examination of the superincumbent strata failed to detect any fissure through which the animal could have entered. The light of day seemed at first to distress it, but this it soon became accustomed to; the eyes were brilliant, the skin moist, the mouth quite closed."

DANGEROUS BUSINESS.

People should be very careful about meddling with the gas meters for two reasons. First, it is extremely dangerous, and second, they are liable to prosecution. The meters are the exclusive property of the gas company and they don't want them moved by anyone. If any changes are necessary their men will attend to them. If the gas had not been turned off the town the day the plumber was at work in the Cooke's building, and exploded what stood in the pipes and meter, there would have been a big fire, as the current of inflammable gas would have been forced into the cellar by the heavy pressure, and nothing could have conquered it. The best way, if you have any changes to make with the meters, is to call in the company and let them attend to them.

The limitless brain of Mr. Childs seems to be ever active in producing little stanzas calculated to soothe grief. His last effort, and one of his best, reads as follows:

The "Bulletin" Free Seed Distribution for 1880.

Arrangements have been perfected for a free seed distribution among the subscribers of the "Bulletin" of several kinds of rare and valuable trees, vegetables and flower seeds. Great care has been taken to choose varieties that have been tested sufficiently in this country or elsewhere, to prove their value for the Pacific Coast, and such as are not readily obtained through ordinary channels. The object has also been to select varieties in view of obtaining such varieties as would prove, not only of benefit to our subscribers, but an advantage to the whole coast. Some of the more valuable of the list have not yet found their way into the catalogues of American seedsmen, and are not obtainable in this country. Several varieties have been ordered from England, France and Japan at large expense, and the actual retail value of the seeds to be presented to each subscriber will about equal the subscription price of this paper.

The distribution will be made during the ensuing winter, and will commence as soon as the last shipment arrives from Europe. There will be delay in the arrival of some of these from France on account of the necessity, in order to obtain perfectly fresh seeds, of waiting for the ripening of the crop of the present season. As soon as possible the date for commencing the distribution will be announced with full particulars through these columns, and in the meantime a description of each variety, accompanied in most cases by an illustration, will be published, and each subscriber will be able to judge of the adaptability of the different kinds to his locality.

In view of the seed distribution and the fact that the Reno Weekly Gazette, the Friday's "Bulletin" and the Weekly "Bulletin," are all given for $3, this is the greatest inducement to subscribe ever offered on the Pacific Coast.

JEWELRY

$75.00 worth for $15.00.
Solid Abyssinian Gold Watch
FREE! FREE! FREE!!!

The above offer is genuine, although at first sight you would consider it impossible. We will explain: Since we first established our business here, March 1878, we have paid particular attention to the buying of Bankrupt and Auction lots of jewelry and watches often buying at half price, as one-fourth or one-sixth the manufacturers' price. Since starting we have always been able to dispose of these goods in Chicago and through our regular customers throughout the country at nearly regular prices, as fast as we could procure them, but owing to the large number of failures among the heaviest dealers and manufacturers throughout this and other countries during the months of June, July and August (the time when the jewelry business is stagnant), we have now on hand an immense stock of the most desirable goods we have ever handled, and which we have bought at lower prices than ever before. In order to dispose of this entire stock in the most speedy manner possible, and make room for new ones which we shall continue to buy, we have hit upon the following novel plan:

We propose to give you a list of the most desirable of these goods, giving opposite each article its regular retail value, and sell to you at the rate of Five Dollars worth for $1. For instance, on receipt of $1 cts. we will send you, promptly, any article to the value of $5; and on receipt of $1, articles to the value of $5, and so on throughout the entire list. Below we give a list of the most valuable of these goods.

"We call the attention of our readers to the new advertisement of the Inventors' Agency, No. 116 E. Washington street, Chicago. What the Inventors' Agency agree to do, they will do. The Sentinel has been certified for the concern since its first publication, and we have never to hear of the first complaint against it."

"The Chicago Express, Sept. 2, says: 'The attention of readers is called to the advertisement of the Inventors' Agency, office and house located at 116 E. Washington St., Chicago. From personal inquiry and the accuracy of a date of the city press, we think our friends can do better when wishing goods than that the American Stockman, Sept. 1, says: 'We believe this institution perfectly sound and respectable, and consequently we are not at all surprised to find that it is doing a good deal of business. At our responsibility we also refer you to the following firms: Blomgren Bros., 163 & 164 So. Clark St., Chicago, Ill.; Miller, Wagner & Umbdenstock, 115 So. Clark St., Chicago.'"

Messrs. James S.
